ON-CAMPUS DINING OPTIONS

All students who live in a residence hall are required to have an on-campus meal plan each semester and can choose from any of the three options below. The location of a student's residence hall does not determine which plan they select.

On-campus meal plans are selected through the Housing Portal. Students will be e-mailed details on how to sign-up for a plan before the beginning of each semester.

Students living in Aspenson Mogensen Hall, Chancellors Hall, Haymarket Landing and The Priory are exempt from this policy but may purchase a meal plan if they would like (see reverse).

Sustainability in Dining

CAMPUS INITIATIVES

As a guest, it is easy to make smart environmental choices when you dine with us. We know today's college students want to do the right thing for the planet and we also understand you lead busy lives. That's why our chefs and managers do a lot of the work for you behind the scenes! From purchasing local seasonal produce whenever possible to reducing inorganic and organic waste, your campus team is dedicated to providing you with an exceptional dining experience that is good for you and good for the planet. This commitment was formalized with our Better Tomorrow Plan. The Better Tomorrow Plan includes 18 commitments for a brighter future by focusing on four key priorities: healthy, planet, community and our people. While our team works hard behind the scenes, they also count on student engagement and enthusiasm to spread the word about what we're doing together on our campus!

FOOD RECOVERY PROGRAM

UWEC started a Food Recovery Program in the fall of 2024. This program is a collaborative effort among the Campus Harvest Food Pantry, Blugold Dining, University Centers, the Administrative Office of Sustainability, and the Student Office of Sustainability. This program has helped provide many repackaged meals to the Campus Harvest Food Pantry, where the meals are frozen and available at no cost to students.

COMPOSTING

Food waste in landfills creates methane, a greenhouse gas which is 21x more potent than CO₂. Our first priority is to reduce food waste. We compost food waste that is unavoidable which reduce greenhouse gas emissions and can also be used to amend soil thereby increasing drought tolerance, improving soil structure and health and reducing need for water and fertilizers.

LOCAL SUPPLIERS

Menus feature locally grown food whenever possible. Nearly 20 percent of the $4.3 million Blugold Dining spends in a year on food is used to purchase food products produced and distributed within 150 miles of Eau Claire. An innovative partnership with a western Wisconsin business is the newest way that Blugold Dining is contributing to the local economy while also supporting the university's commitment to sustainability. Blugold Dining consistently serves products that have been raised and processed locally. 90% of dairy offered through Blugold Dining - including sour cream, cheese and nearly 600 gallons per week of milk consumed by the campus community - comes from local vendors.

FREE FOOD ALERT PROGRAM

We support The Free Food Alert Program which allows faculty and students who host catered events to send out notifications when there is food leftover. This allows others access to the remaining food for free and it's another way we strive to reduce food waste on campus!

GOING COMPOSTABLE!

We're happy to support a healthier planet by providing compostable plates, utensils, napkins, & to-go boxes at our dining locations around campus!

BULK CONDIMENTS

Individual packets of condiments are useful in some instances, but they can also result in extra waste. If you are dining on site you can add the sauce to your item before you leave, by using the bulk dispensers to help reduce our waste.

APEX

Our Ecolab Apex dishwashing system, combines technology and products designed to save water and energy, minimize the impact of waste products on the environment, and has a built-in method of measuring results.
